Amateur Radio
Association

The Torrance Amateur Radio Association is a volunteer arm of the Emergency Services division of the Torrance Police Department.

A seven-band ham station in the police station, coupled with a corps of licensed amateur radio operators who live and work in Torrance, provides eyes and ears from every corner of the city should a natural disaster or widespread communications outage occur. Area Disaster Centers and Torrance Schools are equipped with radio antennas for quick activation in case of emergencies.

The TARA Net is our weekly on-the-air meeting for dissemination of city, district, and county bulletins, and other emergency preparedness matters. Amateur operators in the Torrance area are invited to listen and check in.

To keep our operating skills in shape, we also provide communications for the annual Torrance Armed Forces Day Parade, the city's Fourth of July celebration, and events throughout the South Bay.
